CURRICULUM VITAE

PERSONAL STATEMENT

As an academic Pediatric Hematologist, it is my passion to care for children and adolescents with hematologic disorders. My clinical interests include disorders of hemostasis and thrombosis. I am an Assistant Director of Pediatrics, Division of Hematology and Oncology at Baylor College of Medicine, Associate Chief of Pediatric Hematology, the Medical Director of the Texas Children's Hemophilia Treatment Center, and Director of the Young Women's Bleeding Disorder Clinic. I am an active member of the inpatient hemostasis and thrombosis clinical team where I provide consultation for children with acute hemorrhagic and thrombotic complications. I am interested in short- and long-term outcomes of bleeding and thrombotic disorders and complications in children. In addition to clinical care, I am deeply committed to medical education and participate daily in the education of medical learners including medical students, residents, and fellows. I have developed a monthly fellow hemostasis and thrombosis educational curriculum, which was accepted into the 2022 American Society of Hematology Medical Educators Institute. I am on the American Academy of Pediatrics Hematology-Oncology PREP Subspecialty editorial board where I write questions and critiques for the PREP curriculum, which is central to board preparation for pediatric hematology-oncology fellows. Through my clinical and educational endeavors, I aim to optimize the care of children and adolescents with general hematologic, hemostatic, and thrombotic disorders.
